Vermont Medicaid Next Generation Model ACO Program

Policy Summary:

The Agency of Human Services is preparing for implementation of the Vermont Medicaid Next Generation Model Accountable Care Organization (ACO) Program. This program is a three-year program with two optional one-year extensions. The program is an agreement between Medicaid and provider organizations (under an umbrella ACO) that aims to hold providers accountable for patient quality of care and costs. By providing a prospective, all-inclusive, population-based capitation payment to the ACO for a set of defined health services, the program seeks to improve the efficiency and quality of care delivery to the program's assigned Medicaid beneficiaries, and provide the opportunity for an ACO to perform their own utilization and care management activities.

The Medicaid Next Generation Model ACO Program is an evolution of Vermont's current Medicaid ACO program, the Vermont Medicaid Shared Savings Program (VMSSP), which began in 2014 and is now in its third and final performance year. Because the VMSSP offered an upside-only risk arrangement (in which ACOs are not responsible for shared losses), the Next Generation Model ACO program's shared financial risk requirement goes further than the VMSSP to hold providers accountable for patient outcomes and costs. It should be noted that although the Vermont Next Generation Model ACO is structured similarly to the Medicare Next Generation ACO Model, it has been modified to address the needs of the Medicaid population in Vermont.
